

Masters Divers,

Spring is HERE! That means the 2015 USA Masters Diving Spring Nationals at Stanford University. I am so excited about this Spring Nationals. Another World Class facility at a World Class University, Masters Diving Nationals just keeps getting better and better. But the best part of every Masters Diving Nationals is you! The people make this meet the best Masters competition in the world. Of course I am biased, but until proven otherwise I will stand by my statement.

I hope everyone is making or has made plans to attend this meet. The two hotel blocks will be closing soon. The host hotel is the Crown Plaza and the Courtyard by Marriott (king rooms only) is right next door. Please make reservations ASAP or you may miss out on the GREAT rate they are offering our group. In addition to our competitive schedule, please remember to put the following on your schedule;

Thursday at 6:30pm at host hotel = Semi-Annual Masters Meeting
Friday at 6:30pm the Banquet at the Crown Plaza
Saturday night groups activities to be determined at the meet
Sunday, for those staying over, another group activity

We have so much to celebrate as 2015 begins! The LIFE we live is an adventure and the journey is different for each one of us. Let's enjoy the company of one another yet again at our Spring Nationals. If you have not been to a masters meet in a while, I promise you it will feel just like the last one with all the cast of characters from around the world. If you have never been to a USA Masters Nationals, we ALL hope you decide to "Dive" in to the group of zany misfits who enjoy jumping off buildings – with style! For everyone else, can't wait to see you again!

As summer approaches, Tommy gets to go back to the place he once called home as the diving coach at the University of Missouri. Rumor has it that Tommy may play an extra song or two at the banquet in celebration of his return. Let's get ready to "Dive" into 2015!
